BLAA-MAGEDDON

In the distant future, the year 3018, war has broken out. In order to claim the origins of the all mighty blaa, clans from around Waterford blaa-ttle it out.

Groups of the estranged blaa-ttlers will gather. They have dropped their shields and swords and have picked up the flour and eggs for a display unseen before.

The clans need YOUR help to be victorious!

The blaa-ttle will be a family-friendly participatory event. A theatrical reconstruction set in a post-apocalyptic war-zone. Featuring our estranged blaa-ttlers, tonnes of flour and YOU.

STOMPTOWN BRASS

REQUIEM FOR THE TRUTH

Truth, we are told, is dead. If so, then who organises the funeral? Stomptown Brass, the outrageously energetic 10-piece street-funk band, and Collapsing Horse, the most exciting young theatre company in Ireland, invite you to join them as they take on an audacious task: to host a funeral for the Truth. Witness the colourful exuberance of the Haitian Voodoo-inspired New Orleans jazz funeral as it smashes up against the mournful, solemn ceremony of religion. An extravagant, chaotic street party, with a dark twist.

BIRDS OF BURDEN

ALBUM LAUNCH

Formed around the songwriting partnership of Eoin Dalton (Hollerin' Pine) and Joe Meagher (El higado no existe), the Birds of Burden lineup is completed by Éadaoin Breathnach (Artistic and Musical Director of Rigout Productions), Heather Troy-Whelan (Mufasa, Found on the floor, Broken) and Paul McDonald (Blindsite).

Birds of Burden's sound ranges from driving high tempo rock to meandering hypnotic airs which interlace to frame a highly personal, almost diary like lyrical content, firmly anchored in the folk ballad tradition.

Duration: 1 hour approx.

Terakaft (meaning The Caravan) are the pioneers of desert rock, a Tuareg band from Mali featuring founding members of Tinariwen.

SATURDAY 27 OCTOBER | 8:00PM ST. PATRICK'S GATEWAY CENTRE €18 (€16 CONC.)

Booking through www.imagineartsfestival.com

Their manager Philippe Brix recalls first hearing them in Mali '... this Tuareg guitar - a looping groove, melancholy tune, a simplicity and a profundity - that called to mind the masters of the Delta, the spirit and defiance of the early Wailers, with a desert flavour between Gnawa trance and Ali Farka Toure's serpentine swing'.

Their new album 'Alone' has received huge praise:

'Truth is, there's little Nile Rodgers could teach this lot about using a guitar to get people dancing.' * Mojo

'Terakaft are heavier, more linear and more groove-based than their pals Tinariwen ... Producer Justin Adams moves them into heavy rock territory.' 7/10 Uncut

'The album is hard hitting, gritty desert rock of the very highest order ... Exciting track follows exciting track with melodies and chants which marry up to some of the most exhilarating guitar work.' 9/10 Louder Than War

'A confident alliance of Tuareg blues and rock'n'roll.'

MEETING MR RUCKLE

A RETROSPECTIVE OF THE WORK OF ERNEST RUCKLE

During this time he not only painted some of his most important works but also interacted with the rapidly developing local art scene of the '80s and'90s in a number of crucial areas such as visual art, theatre, printed material, and collaborations with local artists. The exhibition Meeting Mr Ruckle will include original artworks, photographs, and a range of media to highlight his artistic impact and lasting contribution to the culture of Waterford.

SUBTERRANEAN SOUNDS

SEAMUS FOGARTY

Irish songwriter Seamus Fogarty and his band borrow something from every genre from Krautrock to traditional balladry and everything in between, mixing conventional instrumentation with found sounds and live electronics, all fronted by Fogarty's plaintive vocal and songwriting. His latest album The Curious Hand, released on Domino Records and co-produced with Leo Abrahams (Brian Eno, Wild Beasts), has received rave reviews across the board with the Guardian awarding it 5/5 (a 'stunning, mercurial album') while The Irish Times, The Observer, Q Magazine and Mojo all awarded it 4 stars.

Since then, Fogarty has toured extensively, playing Eurosonic, Green Man festivals among others. Imagine Arts Festival and Subterranean Sounds are proud that his new, full band European tour kicks off with us.

It will feature new songs and old, and there may well be dancing!

Opening act, Shane Barry has just finished his new album, The Night Post. It is, as we have come to expect from Barry, packed with Wilcoesque, hook-laden tunes and catchy choruses.

A continuing exploration of the Irish midlands by Pamela de Brí

TRAMORE COASTGUARD CULTURAL CENTRE MON - FRI 9:00AM - 5:00PM SAT 10:00AM - 5:00PM SUN 11:00AM - 4:30PM

Following trips by bicycle around the Irish Midlands where I explored and documented the lesser known areas and have interviewed people living and working there, I have developed a series of etchings and edited audio for exhibition.

The aim of this body of work is to approach a dialogue between a contemporary and an historical view of this part of Ireland. The project goes beyond topography to interweave history, folklore, stories, memory, nature, natural history, in an attempt to record the patina and texture of place. It witnesses and records the changing landscape, traditions and attitudes.

A SUNDAY IN HELL

In 1976, Danish film maker, Jørgen Leth, embarked on an ambitious project to capture the spirit of Paris-Roubaix, cycling's toughest and cruellest 'Monument', in a new and epic way.

Award winning author and journalist William Fotheringham regards A Sunday in Hell as the greatest film about cycling ever made. His book, Sunday in Hell: Behind the Lens of the Greatest Cycling Film of All Time, describes how it was made, what happened on the day, who took those dramatic images and wrote that epic soundtrack, and what became of those larger than life participants.

Join William for a screening of A Sunday in Hell and participate in the post film Q&A. Signed copies of his book will be available to SUNDAY 21 OCT | 4:00PM purchase after the event. Running time 111 mins
